Our technologies are "outside the box"; truly innovative and not duplicated anywhere else. Our team of scientists have developed extremely effective, all organic process technologies that allow us the ability to solve a wide range of problems, some that no other methodology can, while always remaining completely safe and very affordable for end users.

Read our Products page and you will soon discover for yourself just how our technologies are so very different.

While we do operate some projects ourselves, we use licensing in most regions to more rapidly spread our biotech methodologies in order to solve more of the world's problems quickly.

Ask us about the opportunities currently available, and read below for projects ready to go right now.